It seems to me that they will be more like brothers and sisters, whom I am to take care of and teach how to play. We are going to have such nice times together. I love them already, and I know they will all love me. I am sure of it, although I have never seen them, because we are all children, and then they haven t any mother. And I know what that means. Marquis. Oh! I forgot to tell you I had decided that it was best not to bring them to Moraleda for the present. Teresa. Why not? Marquis. They will be better off at school; they write they are contented. It will do them good. Anyhow, I don t want you to be tied down so soon. You will never have any time to enjoy yourself if you begin by taking up the cares of housekeeping and the responsibilities of a family. Teresa. I am sorry that you feel that way about me. I suppose it is my fault. Naturally you have no confidence in my judgment when I tell you I am a child. I know my aunt feels the same. She thinks I have no self-control. She has always been convinced of it. Mahchioness. I cannot imagine what makes you say that. If I had had any such idea, you may be sure I should never have consented to your marriage, considering what marriage-implies....
