Excerpt: . . . pipes in which fires were kept burning. The top of the structure was kept covered with canvas, under which salamanders were placed until the concrete had set beyond all danger of damage by freezing. On account of the rather open character of the structure, the protection during the cold weather was rather difficult, but it has apparently been sufficient. The bridge was designed by Ross M. Riegel, Designing Engineer for the Conservancy District, and was built in the field under the direction of Leslie Wiley, Superintendent of Construction. The material for this article was secured from the Miami C 0 rzserwancy Bulletin. Portable Steam Pump For Dewatering Excavations ANY contractors are already thoroughly M conversant with the Pulsometer steam pump, which they are using in pumping operations and foundation and trench work successfully without the use of oil or any attention during the operation....
